Main general guidelines/advice

- Five pillars:
 - Policy: make sure you're aware of the latest EU policy developments in the area you intend to tackle and have a clear idea how you contribute to it
 - Practitioners: this is applied research, with LEAs in the core; make sure your role and engagement is in accordance with that
 - Researchers: make sure you're aware of the state of the art, especially including the past/on-going projects in the area and have a clear idea of your added value and how you build on that as well as create synergies with on-going projects
 - Industry: clear idea/plan on a potential uptake more than welcome
 - Citizens: not to be forgotten (acceptance, ethics; fundamental rights)
- “Times they are a changin’” – how does your planned proposal intend to cope with it?
- Some other points that further improve the success of a project (if applicable): data strategy from the start; IPR; TRL assessment strategy and a clear plan how to reach it

Information and data stream management to fight against (cyber)crime and terrorism

Scope of proposals

- In 2020, only: b) enhance citizens' security against terrorist attacks in places considered as soft targets, including crowded areas (stations, shopping malls, entertainment venues, etc.), with a focus on private operators
- (NB: Although public authorities are primarily responsible for security, public-private cooperation is key in protecting public spaces. As an example, the first persons on the scene of a terrorist attack are often not police officers, but private security staff from local shops or transport operators. Moreover, public spaces are often owned and operated by private entities.)
- Proposals are invited from consortia involving relevant security practitioners, civil society organisations, and the appropriate balance of IT specialists, psychologists, sociologists, linguists, etc. exploiting Big Data and predictive analytics

Scope of proposals

- Proposals should address only one of the following aspects:
 - Proposals should focus on the continuation of the work already done on some explosive precursors in previous FP7 and H2020 projects, including: tackling new precursors not yet studied.
 - Proposals should tackle the chemicals and potentially their precursors in the usage other than explosives and explosive precursors covered under the first point, and propose means to decrease the vulnerability of the public to their malevolent or terrorist use, along the full timeline of a potential criminal/terrorist plot (from early intelligence to the actual attack).
